

Growing food justice through collective action

NORTHWEST HARVEST

is a food justice organization operating statewide in Washington with a network of 350+ food and meal programs, schools, and community-based organizations. Focused on improving equity in our food system, Northwest Harvest believes everyone should have consistent access to food that nourishes their body and affirms their culture.

ENSURING EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION

Our Food Access Network creates purpose-driven resources, provides access to food while connecting partners to resources, and centers Black, Indigenous, and People of Colors' experiences to build a more equitable food system.

ADVOCATING FOR CHANGE

We advocate at the state and federal level, because nutritious food is a human right. We believe in a future where all people can feed themselves with dignity, whether that is through producing, purchasing, or using a public safety net program.

INVESTMENTS IN EQUITY

We are committed to enhancing equitable food access by establishing no-cost grocery stores across Washington. We currently operate community markets in Seattle and Yakima.
